

Avian community turnover is driven by land cover change at local scales and climate change at regional scales

Individual species dynamics (such as range expansions or population declines) also drive turnover

